

SAVE THE DATE

Conference

Preparing the ground for COP21 in Paris and beyond

TU Berlin – Main Building – Hörsaal H0104
Straße des 17. Juni 135 – Berlin

Thursday, April 16th 2015 – 18:00-20:00

The next Climate change conference (COP21) will be hosted by France. It will take place from November 30th to December 11th, 2015 in Paris.

In order to introduce this conference in the bilateral context, the Embassy of France in Berlin, in cooperation with Berlin University of Technology, is organizing a meeting with high level representatives of French and German ministries involved.

The program includes oral presentations and roundtable discussions.

Nicole Weinhold, Editor in chief of the magazine Erneuerbare Energien will moderate the event, which will be conducted in English.

Speakers:

- Bérengère Quincy
Goodwill Ambassador for Paris Climate 2015
French Ministry for Foreign Affairs and International Development (MAEDI)
- Dr. Karsten Sach
Deputy Director-General for European and international Policy and German Chief Climate Negotiator
German Federal Ministry for Environment, Nature Conservation, Building & Nuclear Safety (BMUB)
- Prof. Stefan Rahmstorf
Potsdam Institute for Climate Impact Research (PIK)

Free entrance – No registration required

Contact:

Department for Science & Technology – Embassy of France in Berlin

science.berlin-amba@diplomatie.gouv.fr

www.wissenschaft-frankreich.de