The ERA-NET Cofund Consortium “European Research Area for Climate Services” (ERA4CS, 01/2016 - 12/2020) has been designed to boost the development of efficient Climate Services in Europe, by supporting research for developing better tools, methods and standards on how to produce, transfer, communicate and use reliable climate information to cope with current and future climate variability. The overall objective of ERA4CS is to enhance user adoption of and satisfaction with Climate Services.

ERA4CS is part of the Joint Programming Initiative (JPI) Climate, a collaboration between 16 European countries to coordinate jointly their climate research and fund new transnational research initiatives.
