The Conference of Rectors of Academic Schools in Poland (CRASP) [Polish: Konferencja Rektorów Akademickich Szkół Polskich, KRASP] was formed by Polish institutions of higher education which had the right to award the doctor's degree (or equivalent) in at least one scientific discipline. The Conference was founded on 7 June 1997 by rectors of higher education institutions, being members of conferences of rectors of the various types of these institutions, namely universities, technical universities, institutions of agriculture, pedagogy, economics, medicine, and fine arts.

Currently, CRASP has 108 members (including 12 non-public schools) and 9 institutions have the status of an associated institution. The Conference of Rectors of Public Vocational Schools (KRePSZ) has the status of an associated conference.
