Final Conference IMS 2020 Project

“Is Internationalization measurable?”

Monday, September 16th, 2013, 10-16h

Venue: Charité Berlin, Lecture Hall of the Medical Clinic
Sauerbruchweg 2, Campus Charité Mitte

- Internationalization for tomorrow's medical schools.
- Time to see how we have turned rhetoric into internationalization good practices, standards and ideas for the future.
- Presentation of a holistic approach to internationalization, embracing the institutional, educational, research, students and staff dimensions, with a particular emphasis on commitment to global health and academic social responsibility.
- How to measure and improve internationalization. Results of a 3 year project, including gathering and analysis of data for over 100 indicators and site visits in 6 prestigious international medical schools in Europe...

This and a new concept of how to continue this process will be presented and outlined during our final conference to be held at the Charité in Berlin in mid-September 2013.
